JASON DERULO BIO

February 2024

Self-belief unlocks endless possibilities.

Jason Derulo may be recognizable worldwide as a multiplatinum singer and songwriter, visionary entrepreneur, best-selling author, committed philanthropist, and engaging presence, but his story starts unassumingly. The self-described, "Kid from a Haitian family in Miami," has quietly and consistently grinded to emerge as one of his generation's most prolific stars. Beyond a powerhouse voice and effusive charisma, a willingness to push limits, break boundaries, and constantly reinvent himself drives his artistry.

Once again, he tells a story you've never heard on his fifth full-length offering and Atlantic Records debut, Nu King.

"For me, it's always important to be original and find different ways to stand out," he exclaims. "My story isn't typical, but it can be an inspiration. If you've ever had doors shut in your face or were told, 'You're crazy for dreaming,' it proves you can do anything you put your mind to. You need to believe in yourself and have confidence."

Jason's confidence has ignited a meteoric rise from those humble origins to global stardom...

Generating tens of billions of streams and reaching a $100 million net worth, his global sales exceed 250 million singles with dozens of multiplatinum and platinum certifications for smashes such as "Wiggle" [feat. Snoop Dogg], "Take You Dancing," "Talk Dirty" [feat. 2 Chainz], "Whatcha Say," and more. He has entered rarified air as one of only X artists to notch three songs streamed over 1 billion times each, namely "Swalla" [feat. Nicki Minaj & Ty Dolla $ign], "Want To Want Me," and "Savage Love (Laxed – Siren Beat)" [with Jawsh 685]. The latter even claimed the #1 spot on the Billboard Hot 100 in addition to toppling charts in 16 countries. He's the rare force of nature equally at home in a duet with BTS or Luke Bryan. With nearly 200 million followers across platforms, he notably remains the "4th most-followed male on TikTok and 11th biggest account overall." He's also appeared in various films and television series, including Spinning Gold and Empire.

His portfolio encompasses ownership stakes in Rocket Car Wash, Pro Volleyball Federation, and the Omaha Supernovas. Other investments include Catch L.A. and Rumble Boxing as well as developing and launching a line of supplements and fitness products with Najafi Group. Plus, he penned the popular book Sing Your Name Out Loud: 15 Rules for Living Your Dream and created the UZO graphic novel in collaboration with Z2 Comics. 2024 saw him launch his On The Road Podcast.

Now, Nu King represents yet another conscious evolution. As his boldest body of work yet, he collates a handful of fan favorites such as "Acapulco," "Slow Low," "Swalla," "Lifestyle" [feat. Adam Levine], "Love Not War" [feat. Nuka], and more alongside various newly recorded anthems.

"Nu King is the culmination of my career so far," he notes. "It's been eight years since my last full-length, and a lot has happened. I never stopped making music though. A lot of those songs didn't have a proper home, so I made a place for them. The newer songs are just a piece of my life at the moment. Combining everything, the entire album has a cinematic feel. For the title, King is my son's name. You can go further, and this is a crowning moment I'm really proud of. 2023 was a preparation year; 2024 is a year of celebrating all of the hard work I've put in and what I've built."

Fittingly, he introduces Nu King via the single "Spicy Margarita" with Michael Bublé. On the track, softly plucked Spanish guitar tiptoes through swooning strings only for a hypnotic dancefloor-ready beat to kick into high gear. Jason and Michael lock into a simmering back-and-forth as the hook instantly intoxicates, "You're my spicy margarita, babe. Burn my tongue. Make me shake. Mix it up, or give it to me straight. Turn me on." It might just be his cheekiest and catchiest banger to date.

"I've listened to Michael since college," he smiles. "His music is a major part of my life. So, I played him 'Spicy Margarita', and he jumped on it immediately. He asked, 'Is it okay if me and my guys add some orchestration?' I was like, 'Hell fucking yeah!'," he laughs. "His version was unbelievable. It was exactly what I envisioned. It has a Latin feel with a little Brazilian funk. I'm really excited for everyone to hear it."

Indicative of his expansive vision, Jason wrote and co-directed a 20-minute short film entitled A Dance With Shadows, consisting of the music videos for "Spicy Margarita," "You + I," "Mad Love" [feat. YoungBoy Never Broke Again], and "Favorite Song." Akin to a dark Marvel film steeped in its own otherworldly gangster lore, the action-packed visual moves at the speed of the music highlighted by moments of intrigue, betrayal, seduction, romance, and nonstop twists and turns.

Raising the stakes and significance, this would also be his first album as a father.

"Everything is a little different now," he says. "I always want to make my son proud. My life has changed, and I have to be conscious of making sure he gets his time. It's another layer, but it energizes me unlike anything else."

Ultimately, Nu King doubles as Jason's coronation.

"I had a few goals with these songs," he leaves off. "First, I tried to give everyone a sense of my vocal range. Secondly, I hope everyone has the same cinematic experience I have in my mind. I hope the record transports you to where I was in the writing process; I hope the magic in my head reaches the other side."

BIO - WITHOUT VISUAL

Self-belief unlocks endless possibilities.

Jason Derulo may be recognizable worldwide as a multiplatinum singer and songwriter, visionary entrepreneur, best-selling author, committed philanthropist, and engaging presence, but his story starts unassumingly. The self-described, "Kid from a Haitian family in Miami," has quietly and consistently grinded to emerge as one of his generation's most prolific stars. Beyond a powerhouse voice and effusive charisma, a willingness to push limits, break boundaries, and constantly reinvent himself drives his artistry.

Once again, he tells a story you've never heard on his fifth full-length offering and Atlantic Records debut, Nu King.

"For me, it's always important to be original and find different ways to stand out," he exclaims. "My story isn't typical, but it can be an inspiration. If you've ever had doors shut in your face or were told, 'You're crazy for dreaming,' it proves you can do anything you put your mind to. You need to believe in yourself and have confidence."

Jason's confidence has ignited a meteoric rise from those humble origins to global stardom...

Generating tens of billions of streams and reaching a $100 million net worth, his global sales exceed 250 million singles with dozens of multiplatinum and platinum certifications for smashes such as "Wiggle" [feat. Snoop Dogg], "Take You Dancing," "Talk Dirty" [feat. 2 Chainz], "Whatcha Say," and more. He has entered rarified air as one of only X artists to notch three songs streamed over 1 billion times each, namely "Swalla" [feat. Nicki Minaj & Ty Dolla $ign], "Want To Want Me," and "Savage Love (Laxed – Siren Beat)" [with Jawsh 685]. The latter even claimed the #1 spot on the Billboard Hot 100 in addition to toppling charts in 16 countries. He's the rare force of nature equally at home in a duet with BTS or Luke Bryan. With nearly 200 million followers across platforms, he notably remains the "4th most-followed male on TikTok and 11th biggest account overall." He's also appeared in various films and television series, including Spinning Gold and Empire.

His portfolio encompasses ownership stakes in Rocket Car Wash, Pro Volleyball Federation, and the Omaha Supernovas. Other investments include Catch L.A. and Rumble Boxing as well as developing and launching a line of supplements and fitness products with Najafi Group. Plus, he penned the popular book Sing Your Name Out Loud: 15 Rules for Living Your Dream and created the UZO graphic novel in collaboration with Z2 Comics. 2024 saw him launch his On The Road Podcast.

Now, Nu King represents yet another conscious evolution. As his boldest body of work yet, he collates a handful of fan favorites such as "Acapulco," "Slow Low," "Swalla," "Lifestyle" [feat. Adam Levine], "Love Not War" [feat. Nuka], and more alongside various newly recorded anthems.

"Nu King is the culmination of my career so far," he notes. "It's been eight years since my last full-length, and a lot has happened. I never stopped making music though. A lot of those songs didn't have a proper home, so I made a place for them. The newer songs are just a piece of my life at the moment. Combining everything, the entire album has a cinematic feel. For the title, King is my son's name. You can go further, and this is a crowning moment I'm really proud of. 2023 was a preparation year; 2024 is a year of celebrating all of the hard work I've put in and what I've built."

Fittingly, he introduces Nu King via the single "Spicy Margarita" with Michael Bublé. On the track, softly plucked Spanish guitar tiptoes through swooning strings only for a hypnotic dancefloor-ready beat to kick into high gear. Jason and Michael lock into a simmering back-and-forth as the hook instantly intoxicates, "You're my spicy margarita, babe. Burn my tongue. Make me shake. Mix it up, or give it to me straight. Turn me on." It might just be his cheekiest and catchiest banger to date.

"I've listened to Michael since college," he smiles. "His music is a major part of my life. So, I played him 'Spicy Margarita', and he jumped on it immediately. He asked, 'Is it okay if me and my guys add some orchestration?' I was like, 'Hell fucking yeah!'," he laughs. "His version was unbelievable. It was exactly what I envisioned. It has a Latin feel with a little Brazilian funk. I'm really excited for everyone to hear it."

Raising the stakes and significance, this would also be his first album as a father.

"Everything is a little different now," he says. "I always want to make my son proud. My life has changed, and I have to be conscious of making sure he gets his time. It's another layer, but it energizes me unlike anything else."

Ultimately, Nu King doubles as Jason's coronation.

"I had a few goals with these songs," he leaves off. "First, I tried to give everyone a sense of my vocal range. Secondly, I hope everyone has the same cinematic experience I have in my mind. I hope the record transports you to where I was in the writing process; I hope the magic in my head reaches the other side."

JASON DERULO BOILER

February 2024

Jason Derulo may be recognizable worldwide as a multiplatinum singer and songwriter, visionary entrepreneur, best-selling author, committed philanthropist, and engaging presence, but his story starts unassumingly. The self-described, "Kid from a Haitian family in Miami," has quietly and consistently grinded to emerge as one of his generation's most prolific stars. Generating tens of billions of streams and reaching a $100 million net worth, his global sales exceed 250 million singles with dozens of multiplatinum and platinum certifications for smashes such as "Wiggle" [feat. Snoop Dogg], "Take You Dancing," "Talk Dirty" [feat. 2 Chainz], "Whatcha Say," and more. He has entered rarified air as one of only X artists to notch three songs streamed over 1 billion times each, namely "Swalla" [feat. Nicki Minaj & Ty Dolla $ign], "Want To Want Me," and "Savage Love (Laxed - Siren Beat)" [with Jawsh 685]. The latter even claimed the #1 spot on the Billboard Hot 100 in addition to toppling charts in 16 countries. He's the rare force of nature equally at home in a duet with BTS or Luke Bryan. With nearly 200 million followers across platforms, he notably remains the "4th most-followed male on TikTok and 11th biggest account overall." He's appeared in various films and television series, including Spinning Gold and Empire. His portfolio encompasses ownership stakes in Rocket Car Wash, Pro Volleyball Federation, and the Omaha Supernovas. Plus, he penned the bestselling book Sing Your Name Out Loud: 15 Rules for Living Your Dream and created the UZO graphic novel in collaboration with Z2 Comics. Once again, he tells a story you've never heard on his fifth full-length offering and Atlantic Records debut, Nu King, beginning with "Spicy Margarita" [with Michael Bublé].